2.a. Definition and concepts

Official development assistance (ODA) is defined as the flows of public finance administered with the promotion of economic development and the well-being of developing countries as the main objective, and which are concessional in nature with a subsidy element of at least 25% (using a fixed 10 percent discount rate). By convention, ODA flows include contributions from donor government agencies, at all levels, to developing countries (“bilateral ODA”) and multilateral institutions.

4.a. Rationale

The indicator is relevant because it captures the proportion of official development assistance devoted to sanitation and water.

4.b. Comment and limitations

Updating the indicator requires an exhaustive collection of all public development aid, dedicated to water and sanitation

4.d. Validation

The data is validated at two levels: internal validation and validation at the CTIS level before publication

5. Data availability and disaggregation

The indicator is available at national level.

6. Comparability/deviation from international standards

Data can be compared to past data

7. References and Documentation
